

The Little Home Chats

Every married man has a little scene like the above—every young man gets in the same position only differently—sometimes the scene is changed and there is a little hair-pulling match on the side. Talking things over in the home is a great balance wheel in the daily routine, and in the conference at home when the subject of clothing is brought up we want you to know that we are strong on clothing for business men, and for men who earn their living by the sweat of their brow. AND THEY ARE THE SIMON PURE ARTICLE IN THE LINE OF REAL MEN IN THIS LIFE. When we open our new store we will carry garments for those who attend social functions—Full Dress and Tuxedo Suits—but just now we are hammering away on the $11.65 suits, the ones with THE MONEY BACK GUARANTEE, and the rebuilding sale will come to an end soon. Watch us grow and develop. Attend the closing days of this great sale at

For the White Bedroom

IN a cream or a white bedroom most women have the idea that nothing but white, pink or blue covers will do for the dresser, chiffonier and bed. This is a mistake. To have the bedroom covers in white when the room itself is enameled in white is to make the room characterless, whereas to put a color into it at once gives it a personality.

A decorator noted for his artistic taste insists that many of the white enameled rooms which he plans shall have covers of ecru or deep cream. Deep cream is preferable. The contrast of this rich tone against the white of the room is most effective. Even if the furniture and woodwork be in cream the cream or ecru of the lace blends in with it beautifully and yet does not have the characterless effect of dead white or cream with white covers.

For this purpose nothing is better than the imitation fillet squares of lace. These come by the yard, already joined. They will not be wide enough, however, to make the cover, so that two strips will have to be joined. The joining is made ornamentally by a piece of ecru or torchon lace of the same shade as the fillet lace. It will take two or three of these fillet strips joined, according to the sizes of the squares. When the strips have been so joined with the lace and an oblong has been formed edge the covers about the edging to match the insertion. To make the bedroom set complete there should be a bedspread and pillowshams or, if one of those hollow roll bolsters is used, a bolster throw for it. Under these lace covers in every instance should be white or cream color foundations.

If cream color is desired a cream batiste or cambric can be used. The lace covers can be simply laid upon these foundations or basted to them.

If expense is no object real fillet and real ecru lace may be used, but if it is necessary to economize you will find that imitation fillet joined with imitation ecru lace or torchon in ecru design is very effective.

It was new to the guests at a porch party, where decorations consisted of garden flowers, where nasturtium sandwiches and flower decked salad were served and where the prizes for the various winners in the guessing contests were lovely bunches of flowers from the hostess's garden.

ATTORNEYS DO BATTLE IN THE M'CARN TRIAL

Jury I swore to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, and not to divulge any of the proceedings. I will answer only when ordered to do so by the court.

Judge Whitney then told Mr. Thompson that he might answer the questions.

Thompson on Stand.

City and County Attorney J. W. Cathcart then proceeded to ask Mr. Thompson whether he had made certain statements to the grand jury, the questions being based on testimony given by Mr. Thompson yesterday morning.

"Did you testify before the federal grand jury that you had heard McBride say, in response to Mr. McCarn's first statement, 'I am responsible for anything that I say inside of court or outside'?" asked Mr. Cathcart.

"I did," replied Mr. Thompson.

"Did you testify that you heard McBride call Mr. McCarn a—cripple?"

"I have no distinct recollection of it. I can't say," was the witness' answer.

"Did you testify that McBride had a watch in his right hand, and that he changed it to his left hand, whirled around and put it on a chair?" asked Mr. Cathcart.

"I did," same the answer, coupled with an objection by the defense.

"I have a right to show if this witness told the same things to the grand jury as he has told here," said Cathcart.

The prosecution then asked the witness a question regarding "an assault which he had testified to yesterday."

Jeff McCarn jumped to his feet.

"We object to that, if the court please," he said.

"This witness did not testify to any assault."

Mr. Thompson was on the stand until 10:05 o'clock.

Mrs. Thompson a Witness.

Mrs. J. W. Thompson, wife of the assistant district attorney, was the next witness to be called by the defense. Her version of the affair was given in a straightforward manner, and examination both by defense and prosecution was brief.

She testified that shortly after 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the affair she had gone to her husband's office in the federal building with a Mrs. Cooper, following a mission meeting in Central Union church. While sitting there, she said, Mr. McCarn passed through to his own office, speaking pleasantly to the women.

She said that a few minutes later Mr. McCarn again passed through the room and out into the hall, Mr. Thompson entering the room as the district attorney left it.

"Shortly after I heard McCarn say, 'McBride, I am not going to stand for your insults any longer, or something like that,'" she said. "I then heard whom I suppose was Mr. McBride answer, 'I'm responsible for what I say in court or out of court.'"

Mrs. Thompson further testified that she heard McBride call McCarn a—cripple, and that McCarn then addressed McBride in even more violent language. She described McCarn's tone of voice as being "emphatic."

The witness said that she heard a blow delivered, but that she saw nothing. She said that she "insisted upon Mr. Thompson's running."

Murphy Tells of "Word War."

Augustus E. Murphy, clerk of the federal court, was the next witness called by the defense. In direct examination, he was asked to tell his version of the "word war" which occurred between McBride and McCarn in the federal courtroom during the Sylvester trial, prior to the "affair" in the hallway on the second floor.

The question called for strenuous objection on the part of the prosecution, it being stated that such a matter was too remote to be material in the case. More than an hour was spent in argument, during which time McCarn spoke at length, and at length engaged in a word tilt with Attorney L. Andrews. Judge Whitney took the matter under advisement at noon, and will render a decision in the morning.

The trial will be continued at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

OFFICERS SAVE LIFE OF SOLDIER, IS STORY FROM DISTANT POST

Another narrow escape from death of a soldier-mountaineer is reported from Schofield Barracks.

Last Thursday Private John D. Schoenberg, Troop H, 4th Cavalry, had a fall while hunting in the Waianae range, lodging on a narrow ledge about 150 feet below the top of a cliff. The soldier was severely injured and his companion was unable to get to him. Going back over the trail this companion met Lieutenants S. W. Cook and H. A. Flint, 4th Cavalry, who were on a hunting expedition. These officers made a line out of picket ropes by which Flint was lowered. It fell just short of the injured man, but Flint remained in his perilous position while Cook went down the mountain for more rope. Private Peland, also of Troop H, remained at the other end of the rope at considerable personal danger. When more rope was available Lieutenant Flint placed the line around the injured man and gave the signal for him to be hauled to the top of the cliff. The officer then followed.

H. P. Mahauli, who appealed from the verdict of the district court at Wailuku, reiterated his innocence when arraigned before Judge Ashford this morning. He is accused of assault and battery. Through his counsel, S. F. Chillingworth, he waived jury trial and the hearing was set for 9 o'clock next Saturday morning, October 3.

Second Lieutenant Matthew A. Pallen of the 25th Infantry has filed an application in the supreme court for license to practise law in the district and circuit courts of the territory.

THOUGHT SHE COULD NOT LIVE

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Unionville, Mo.—I suffered from a female trouble and I got so weak that I could hardly walk across the floor without holding on to something. I had nervous spells and my fingers would cramp and my face would draw, and I could not speak, nor sleep to do any good, had no appetite, and everyone thought I would not live.

Some one advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had taken so much medicine and my doctor said he could do me no good so I told my husband he might get me a bottle and I would try it. By the time I had taken it I felt better. I continued its use, and now I am well and strong.

"I have always recommended your medicine ever since I was so wonderfully benefitted by it and I hope this letter will be the means of saving some other poor woman from suffering."—Mrs. MARTHA SEAVEY, Box 1144, Unionville, Missouri.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as that above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for years.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.
